

Supplemental Figure 1. Photomicrographs taken at 40X magnification of Type A fabrics. Above, sherd S2-06-45, which contains two of the unweathered feldspar fragments typical of this fabric, photographed in partial cross-polarized light. Below, sherd S3-06-23, photographed in cross-polarized light, which also contains significant quartz and plagioclase feldspar.